=========================== Jumplist-Launcher is a small tool that lets you add up to 60 programs, files or folders within self-defined groups inside a jumplist. Jumplist-Launcher is a small tool that allows you to define groups of applications which are launched when you right-click on them in your superbar. The groups are named using a jumplist, which is a jpg image and is designed to be used as a desktop shortcut. The jumplist comes with a help tool that tells you what each button does and it also shows you which applications are in the jumplist when you open the jumplist-launcher. What can you do with jumplists? =========================== Launching --------- You can add a jumplist to your superbar or the system tray. You can also launch a specific group from the jumplist-launcher directly, for example if you have a small collection of programs you always launch at startup you could place them inside a single jumplist inside the system tray. Deleting -------- You can delete a jumplist from the jumplist-launcher, but it will be as if the jumplist was never there. If you delete a jumplist that is not in the system tray, the jumplist can still be used in other ways, for example it can be added to the superbar. Quick launch ------------ Using jumplists is easy. You can add an application, a file or a folder to the jumplist. These items are called quick launch items. Jumplists can contain up to four quick launch items, you can add them directly in the jumplist-launcher using the standard keyboard or using the context menu. The quick launch items in your jumplist appear as a floating button. When you click on it, the application will be launched. The order of the items is determined by their order in the jumplist. You can add and remove quick launch items from the jumplist using the standard keyboard and context menu. Check the jumplist quick launch items at any time by selecting "View menu / Jumplist". Creating a jumplist -------------------

What's New In?

Jumplist-Launcher is a small application that lets you add up to 60 programs, files or folders inside self-defined groups inside a jumplist. It's just for personal use, as the developer is looking for contributors.   The jumplists are added by drag'n'drop them in a List view. Each item has its own icon and name and you can add it to the Jumplist by pressing the Add button (icon on the top right corner) or by holding down the mouse button on an item. You can remove items by pressing the Delete button (icon on the bottom right corner).   Jumplist-Launcher looks like an icon list view, so that it blends in well with your desktop icons. You can view the content of a jumplist by pressing the up/down arrow buttons. If you want to add or remove a group or an item, you can easily do this by pressing the + button (icon on the top left corner).   After installing Jumplist-Launcher, you can double-click on an icon inside a jumplist to open it.   Supported platforms: Windows 2000, XP, Vista, 7, 8, 8.1   Supported languages: English, French, German, Italian, Spanish, Hungarian, Turkish   See also: [content/uploads/2019/08/Screenshot.... content/uploads/2019/08/Screenshot.... content/uploads/2019/08/Screenshot.... [content/uploads/2019/08/Screenshot....](content/
