Say for example i have NList. NList NListOfKeys = new NList(); NList NListOfValues = new NList(); Some Time in the future i want to retrieve an object from the NList of keys with a key value. Object retrived = NListOfKeys.get("MyKey"); What is the best way to do this in an efficient manner? Thanks in advance A: Create your own class (ListNode) which extends object. Use static methods for adding and removing from the list with ArrayList. For example: public class ListNode { private String key; private Object value; public ListNode(String key, Object value) { this.key = key; this.value = value; } public String getKey() { return key; } public Object getValue() { return value; } } static class ListNodeList { private ArrayList list = new ArrayList(); public ListNode get(String key) { for (ListNode node : list) { if (node.getKey().equals(key)) { return node;
