KEYMACRO is a macro and keyboard recorder that can also be integrated with other software tools. It automatically turns your computer keyboard into a controller for any program that records keystrokes and mouse movements. It provides complete access to the physical keyboard and mouse through any application or windows. KeyMACRO supports virtually any software in your computer. It can record keyboard commands, mouse clicks, and all keystrokes and mouse movements on your desktop. The program uses Windows standard hooks and API, so it is independent of the actual OS version. The application is extremely easy to use and can be used immediately after installation. KEYMACRO is not a replacement for a mouse driver or a mouse emulator. The application records the physical movements of the mouse, not the actions of the mouse driver. It simply emulates the mouse buttons and clicks. If you are already using a mouse, you do not need to download or install any additional software. You can easily record the state of multiple computers on one account. It can also be used on the same computer by using two different keyboards. You can easily record keyboard commands, mouse clicks, and all keystrokes and mouse movements on your desktop. The program uses Windows standard hooks and API, so it is independent of the actual OS version. KEYMACRO works with your computer. It does not require administrator privileges and does not access or modify your system. There are two ways to use the application: Using the Windows popup recording system: All you have to do is open the program and click the button to start recording. You will see the popup dialog window. It displays the current state of your computer. When you are done with the recording, click the button on the top left corner to finish it. Using the browser macro recording system: If you prefer the browser-based recording system, just open the program and click the button to start recording. You will see the popup dialog window. It displays the current state of your computer. When you are done with the recording, click the button on the top left corner to finish it. KEYMACRO Features: * Automatically records your computer keystrokes and mouse clicks and movements * Unlimited number of computers on one account * Works with any software, not a mouse emulator or replacement for mouse driver * Works with all versions of Windows, not limited to XP * Supports multi-windows with different keyboards and mouse devices * Works with any third-party software (without any installation) * No special setup and
