If I want to watch a movie, I can search for it on YouTube and I can even use Google Images to find it. However, how do I find a movie that includes two people who are parents? A: How to find a movie where the main characters are parents? You can search for it on IMDB and the information will be included. However, that won't help you to decide whether it is worth watching. You will probably only be able to find movies where this is clearly the main plot and nothing else. If you are in a situation where you want to see which movies have parents as protagonists, you are probably best off looking for movies that explore the process of "growing up", the journey your parents are making through their 40's. They can do this by "growing up" their kids or by getting back in touch with their own "childhood" (playing catch with their kids, going to your grandparent's and so on). You could also watch movies that include a family and try to find out the members' relationships. When I say "growing up" I am not only thinking about families with two parents, I think about all families. Also, look for movies that are not only about growing up, but are also about "growing old". I know that this may be a bit strange, but when you are older you start to think about your parents. Just as they have been important in your life for the longest, they are important for you even as you get older, so you want to take care of them. This may also apply to your own parents, but especially to your parents that have passed away. Additionally, I recommend that you watch movies with actors that are closer to their age. For example, if you are in your 30's, you 82138339de
