This is the story of a heroic soul exiled to the Lost City. In this final quest for justice, the hero must find and defeat a murderous Knight of Doom. However, their journey is not as simple as it seems. This Story Driven Shooter/Platformer tells the tale of a warrior sentenced to death. Learning his lesson by the hands of the cruel and unforgiving knights, you will have to make your way through the titans and villains of the lost city. Solve fun environmental puzzles, from mechanics that come straight from platformers like Mega Man, to the more obscure mechanics of a shooter. To make things even more interesting you have the chance to fight dozens of enemies, from the resurrected warriors of the past to the undeads of the future. Key Features: • Experience an artistic and chilling atmosphere. • Solve a vast range of puzzles that differ from platformers and shooters. • Fight dozens of enemies, from Titan Knights to villainous

Wraiths, to finally face the formidable Knight of Doom. • Fights will be a sight to see, with huge boss fights that will test both your ability to unleash God's wrath as well as your human emotions. • A main theme revolving on God's power and reason to create. • A variety of characters with complex motivations that will make you question your actions. • An interesting story full of tragedy and dramatic events that will make you want to keep going. • Dive into a dark and gritty atmosphere that will touch your heart. • Heavy emphasis on the art, where we will go great lengths to offer an immersive experience.

's 'Life On The Strand' Leeds Show While a lot of metal & punk bands have taken to the Strand Theatre since it closed, the last thing I expected to find was a killer, hardcore punk show on stage. The Leeds stage of Black Somnia is put together by two friends of mine from my work; Ian Hudson & Jordan Turner. There's little set-up, and the set is minimal, with the members on stage in full, skin coloured hoodies and ripped-up jeans; playing what would be considered near-standard hardcore punk. Open to anyone, it's regular and friendly, and I personally found the set-up to be more intimate than the larger gigs I've witnessed at the Strand. After some quick praise from a few to the left of the stage of the band - "What the hell are you guys called?" and, as they approach for the second song; "why did you call yourselves Black Somnia?" - I look around to the men playing it. "We did actually. We wanted something that sounded black," says Ian., "because there's not many black-sounding hardcore bands, and it's a bit of a crime that there's no many black people in hardcore." "There's a lot of them actually," continues Jordan. "Not many people give it a go though, not anymore. I don't know if it's because people don't consider it hardcore or some shit." "People think it's too violent," Ian. interjects. "Sometimes with our music. Yeah," says Jordan. Then Ian. adds; "This isn't an angry band" before launching into the next song. It's potent, and filled with head bangs and wild, energetic passion. After the brief interview, and a couple of songs, the crowd is shown their single. Out of hundreds of people, five are enough for a hand-shake and a smile. Jumping on stage for his set, and being given room, I was excited to check out the new single. "Oh, this has got a bonus," says Jordan as the single is played on the floor. This time several people turn around to look
