I never knew how much people are being paid for EMR software. It seems this market is fully developed now so the author of this article is doing a fantastic job by just presenting the facts. There are some things that I find problematic on this article. I don't have time to get into all of them, but I will mention the ones that I think are particularly troublesome. It is really hard to be objective about this kind of stuff, but I have to just be honest that the author is a bit biased here. Here's the first thing I noticed: "XLcy is not a reference to the xl Files that the author mentions. I strongly disagree with the author's statement that XL CY should be associated with the xl Files. XL CY is actually acronym for the xl Files and there was no implication anywhere in this article that it was some kind of EMR platform. The first part of the author's argument is that XL CY is being used as a marketing tool by the vendors. They are using EMR vendor software instead of keeping a good relationship with their customers. I think this is a bullshit argument and I really hope that the author has a good relationship with his vendor, and the good news for the author is that this really seems to be the case! In fact, it's pretty cool that the author has a good relationship with his software 0cc13bf012
