If you like what you see below, please reach out to me for more details. I am able to share more information with you about my background and how I would like to see my career in the future. Michael Fisher Senior Director, Technology Development, Entertainment EA SPORTS E-mail: michael.fisher@ea.com I went to college and I was interested in programming and I learned HTML and I learned JavaScript and I learned Java. I just learned how to program and I made my own websites. I wanted to work in this industry because I really want to make video games. I learned a little bit of the game design from playing the game. I started with FIFA 10 and I played other games like Madden. I started my career as an intern, I was working for EA Sports at that time. I was helping with the production of FIFA 11 and FIFA 12. I was a support developer on FIFA 14 and FIFA 15. Now I work on the technical side and I work on the game design side. I like to build games that are fun and that can really allow the players to have fun. I like to make games that really improve on what people know and kind of clean up some of the things that aren't so perfect. It's all about, like you said, being a great game. I started as an intern here. I worked with the Sports Development group. Then I moved to the Technology group. I
