It's Cat Mermaid. He is a cat, and he likes fish. But he likes pasta even more! Which means he is not like the other fish in the sea. Cat Mermaid is a bit too picky and a bit too fat. He likes pasta and water, he is not the real hero! But he really does everything to keep his hunger under control. And he has some great qualities: It doesn't eat pasta Good reflexes Not very bright It's still he who is not happy about the journey. No Fishburger and no pasta. No fishburger and no pasta. Oh oh oh. And now the hardest part: Cat Mermaid has to find a fishburger, and he needs a guide. A ninja guide, in this case, Professor Bartholomeow. The Professor has the ability to touch and hold coins. He can tell when Cat Mermaid is in trouble, and his advice will help him more. He can also find hidden treasures and solve puzzles. But sometimes a destiny is waiting for us. All of you will get used to the story of Cat Mermaid. You will begin to realize that the biggest reason of our sufferings is Cat. Mermaid. Yes, Cat Mermaid, your friend. Listen, you know, I already have a cat. He is not a king or anything like that, but he gets along fine in my flat. And he likes fish as well. You don't need to remind me again about Cat, my friend. I already know what I'm talking about. Please, just remember that the more you suffer, the more Cat Mermaid will show up. Try to get the better part of the game. So finally, no more suffering for you. All that is waiting for you in Cat Mermaid. Thank you for watching, see you next time! Thank you very much for your time! We will see you next time. Thank you for watching, bye! Lifetime and fecundity correlates of eutrophication and its effect on age-sex class ratios in surf zone oysters. Juvenile and adult populations of eastern oyster Crassostrea virginica were collected for a two-year study (2002-2003) in the Chesapeake Bay. A clear environmental response to increased nutrient enrichment, particularly dissolved inorganic nitrogen and phosphorus (DIN and P, respectively), was detected in age structure of males and females during 2002 in the surf zone. Tunnel of horror is based on a story of the computer game "Jigsaw" originally developed in the USA. The player hides in a seemingly abandoned amusement park and goes through a series of frightening actions that will be resolved in the end. There is enough adventure, but it is no horror movie. Instead, we have a combination of puzzles and the psychological thriller. The setting of the game is a haunted research laboratory in the downtown. It is supposed to be a large laboratory, but in real it is a complete mystery, and the player can only solve the puzzle with the help of his intelligence and imagination. The game allows you to choose a specific playstyle. There is a seductive option to flee the place and hide, or to tackle the puzzles one after another and solve them in order to move on. You can also play stealthily - perform various actions in the dark, hide in dark corners, close doors with a sledge hammer and other things. You are in a low-quality future world where a new technology that gives the owner the ability to control and destroy human beings. But the problem is that there are too many players, and they want to fight to the end. The human body is a very complicated and not always predictable thing, and at the same time every player has a different kind of body. Therefore, during the game you will see a lot of different outcomes from unrepairable injuries and strange interactions to nonstop health regeneration. What's new:

. His eyes widen. "You don't mean Dalain?" Other than the fact that he's the most powerful warrior in history, Dalain's existence hasn't been confirmed until now. "You look like him. And..." He blinks. "You... know... Dalain...?" I blink. "Should I?" ## EIGHT  "One, two, three, four..." Years of ballet training come to mind as Jordan does the splits, fanning her arms above her head with hands in exaggerated ballet poses. Meanwhile, my favorite YouTube amateur recital comes on, the talent in her voice giving me chills. I've been daydreaming about Jordan, which is rare. But there's more to her life than daydreaming about it. As if sensing my meditations (thanks to the synchro with my stylus), Jordan continues her incoherent dance. I press Play and stop the video. She seems to be trying to repeat the exact steps she's just done, perfectly this time. Smiling, I touch my ear. "She's done with the audio. Let's see what else she's got." Another amateur video plays — this one is an interview with Jordan on radio with the same voice as her dancing — asking her questions about her accident, her injuries, and what she did with her life since. Jordan plays along, but her eyes dart away when they ask questions she's seen and doesn't want to talk about. From the corner of my eye, I see Spencer cross his arms, pause, and stare at the screen. "Poor Jordan," he says. "She looks like she barely survived the accident." "Looks like her new face doesn't let her forget either." I tap a button to the left of Play, to pause the video, because I'm intrigued by something I saw in her eyes. "Watch." * The new face she developed since the accident is a noble but slightly weird expression — a combination of pain, shame, embarrassment, and defiance. It makes it harder to look at her eyes and see the beauty she once had. So much harder. The host asks her about the accident. And later, another interviewer asks Jordan to name the most interesting things about herself. Jordan's voice is softer on the radio this time. She isn't being honest about her condition, but maybe Spencer's right. Jordan's Dwarven Greed™ is an epic strategy game combining the risk management of an arcade game with the strategy of an RTS. You are in command of the Tower of Masters on the planet's first habitable moon, Dwarven Bluff. The goal of Dwarven Greed™ is to build the largest and most powerful Tower, thus securing dominance over the planet. Features: Epic Scale: Dwarven Greed™ is a large scale strategy game on the scale of World War II. The universe of Dwarven Greed™ is not limited to just one star system, but spans across the Galaxy. Epic Win Conditions: Dwarf Lords will face unique win conditions and unique quests. Victory may come down to either destroying your opponent's tower or securing as many resources as possible to build a superior Tower. Epic Risk Management: Every Dwarf Lord must choose carefully the mission he takes on as a Commander and the quests he takes on as a Dwarf Lord. On a mission, you will be able to choose a route with multiple turns that will affect the outcome of the mission. Brand new Arena Mode: Test out your Dwarf Lord's skills as you fight your way through seven events, each with unique quests and risk management elements. Brand New Resource Management: Dwarf Lords take on quests to gather resources from the planet's seven biomes. Each biome has different resource needs and different drops for each biome. Brand New Tactics and Combat: The combat in Dwarven Greed™ is broken down into Battle Segments. Each segment is like a match in a MOBA with unique bonuses to your units and a unique resource restriction that provides valuable insight into the upcoming battle. Brand New Upgrades: Not only does each unit come with 6 set bonuses, but you can spend points from your supply pool to unlock new upgrades for each unit. Many of the upgraded unit attributes are added on like new abilities and passive stats. New Graphic Style: The war for the moon has begun. Create a unique look by fitting your unit's gear into your dwarf's equipment. The game uses unique unit art to create a visually stunning game. Custom Clan Art: Create the greatest clan by customizing your clan's banner, unit art, armor, and more. Dwarven Greed™ is a limited edition release. Once the 50,000 copies of the game are sold, the game will be no longer for sale. Key features: • Epic scale: Prepare for an epic strategy game that spans across the galaxy on a
