Remington Golden Saber So I was at a gun show in Florida when I picked up this Remington Golden Saber. It's a 4.5x12. The bore looks clean and there was a little soft pink powder in the barrel. The stock looks pretty good and it's a straight pull bolt action. I have no idea how old this thing is but it's in pretty good shape. I have no idea how much it would be worth but it looks like a lot to me. Did the Remington Golden Saber put out any scopes? Pics: Originally Posted by ktaylor25 If any one has any knowledge about this firearm could you please PM me. I have a Remington Golden Saber that looks much the same except the stock is a part of the action. The stock isn't even attached to the receiver but it's a straight pull bolt action. The barrel has a nice pinkish tint on it but it isn't all the way through. You see the rifling for the chamber in the cap and rear of the barrel. I have no idea how old this is or what the true value is but it seems to be mostly complete and it's been in a gun safe since a kid had it. I can't seem to get the image to display correctly. I will try again when I get home in a little bit. Q: Is it possible to use `_atom_property_subscriptions` with `clojure.lang.PersistentArrayMap`? Does anyone know if it is possible to use `atom`

In response to his story being posted on atheist sites, he has been threatened by the pastor of the church where he is a worshipper. He is under subpoena and the church says he can not leave the state. Robert Ingersoll said he was open with his fellow worshippers at church, he said he had been an atheist, a free thinker, a skeptic, and he even expressed that his beliefs were not a choice. The pastor and his flock suggested that his atheism was a choice, and suggested that he is living in denial and hiding from the truth. The pastor and church eventually found out about the existence of an atheist bus. He made a statement saying there would be consequences, and that
