With Program One 5 you can generate a variety of financial statements for your chosen account type. Have two accounts, a savings account and a loan? Surely you have. When you have two accounts, you will always have a need for a double entry cash book. You need to be able to tell how much money you have in each account at any given time. No matter how wealthy or poor you are, you will always need a wealth of basic financial data - income and cost figures, projected profit and loss, figures to work out your tax liability. All of this can be boiled down into one page - on two sheets. One sheet for each account. You can have a variety of formats, but that doesn't matter. In this application, we will use the simple spread sheet format which is contained in one page. Each worksheet is a record of transactions for the day. The top worksheet is the Cash Invoice and the other is the Cash Receipt worksheet. The top worksheet has three columns, Account, Type and Date. The Type column contains all the account names you use. The Account column has one column for each of your account names, where you enter the amount that is being used in that account. The Date column holds the current date and time. The bottom worksheet has four columns, Account, Entry, Cost and Daily Balance. The Columns for Account and Entry will show the Balance column on the worksheet which had Cash Receipt type. This worksheet has three columns, Entry, Cost and Balance. The Entry column shows the amount you spend or earn in that account, and the Balance column shows the new amount in that account. The Cost column will show the current amount in the account, which is just the total of all the transactions for the day. The different account types are shown on the left of the screen. It shows a list of all the account types, and each one is represented by a box with a letter code. The most common account type is the Running Total account, which is represented with the letter C. In the lower right hand corner, there is a combo box with six account types. If you change the combo box, the number of account types will change to either six, seven, or eight. Every time you type in a new account type, the list of account types in the combo box will increase to add the new account type. The accounts can be entered in 3a67dfec
