The Coast Guard reports that stronger winds and higher seas will limit access to many beaches, both along the coast and across Cape Cod Bay. In anticipation of high winds and high waves, the Massachusetts Office of Emergency Management issued a strong-wind warning for the entire Cape Cod region. That includes all of eastern Massachusetts, including the Cape, Islands, Nantucket Sound, and Buzzards Bay. The National Weather Service canceled the severe weather warning for Cape Cod, saying an area of moderate and strong squalls remains around the outer cape and that little impact is expected. Squalls of 30 to 40 mph and stronger can create dangerous surf and rip currents. Tides are also a factor; the National Weather Service said high tidal surges will occur along the shore with the rising tide. The End of a Pabst Beer Company - Varcht ===== Varcht My 2 cents on the value of intellectual property (IP). Companies are built around IP. A large proportion of their value is attached to it. A company's brand is a large portion of their intellectual property and has long been thought to be a vital part of business. In addition, IP creation provides businesses
