[RPG] [crotch] We Have No Rice! ~Magical Farming Survival RPG~

She was gone for 5 months and I had no idea what happened to her or what she was up to. I called when I got the chance, and she sounded so exhausted. I asked her if she needed some time off, and she said she couldn't take time off for a while. I tried to tell her that was fine, that I was doing fine, but she was unhappy with the way things were going. She said she was worried about the family, because they could all use a babysitter when they weren't home. She said she was being honest with me, and I needed to be honest with her about how I really felt. I told her I was happy about how we were doing, and how much I'd missed her. I told her how I missed our time together. I missed our talks. I missed her laugh, her sweet nature. I miss everything about her. She had me believing I'd never felt anything like this before. She was so passionate about the shop, the food, the bakery, the restaurant. I would tell her how I missed doing this stuff. And she would say "I'm glad you're enjoying the business side of things, but you don't need to keep this up. You need to get your writing side going and get some writing going. I want to help you with that." But I didn't want to hear about writing. I couldn't even think about it. And that's not just from the guilt or wanting to do it for her. I don't know what it is with me. It's not like I have any problem with writing; it's a specific type of writing. "Haiku is for children" is what I keep hearing. But it isn't like I do this for her. I do this for me. It makes me happy. I like to make people laugh. I like to write about people doing unusual things, things that are out of the ordinary, things that I think are funny. I also like making people scream, and I don't think that's only me. I don't know why that is. I like seeing those looks on people's faces, because you know it's making them laugh, or it's making them uncomfortable. I love to make people feel uncomfortable. I didn't have that with M-m-me. I always felt like I was being too close to her. One night, I told her I was really worried about our relationship. I said she needed to tell me what
