Sierra Hotfix Torrent __HOT__

qbittorrent v4.2.3 was released. it contains various fixes from v4.2 regarding scaling on hidpi monitors, some vpn issues and unc path handling. torrents with broken unc paths will be fixed when you run this release. qbittorrent v4.2.1 was released. windows: users of windows 10+ can also use the qt5 version of the installer. qt5 offers better hidpi compatibility. the qt5 version isn't tested much. the v4.x series will probably be the last one that supports qt5 and therefore windows 7 and 8. it will see releases at least until the summer of 2022. linux: an appimage is now offered. it uses the latest versions of qt5, libtorrent, boost, openssl. it is created on ubuntu 20. qbittorrent v4.4.6 was released. note: the default builds for all oss switched to libtorrent 1.3.x (rc_1_3) from 2.0.x (rc_2_0). builds for libtorrent 2.x are also offered and are tagged with rc_2_0. the switch happened due to user demand and perceived performance issues. if until now you didn't experience any performance issue then go ahead and use the rc_2_0 builds. macos: the macos version is not well supported, because we don't have active macos developers/contributors. the project is in need of macos developers. if you are a macos developer willing to help, just go to our bug tracker for a list of macos related issues. or try to fix bugs that you yourself have discovered and annoy you. qbittorrent v4.4.7 was released. note: the default builds for all oss switched to libtorrent 1.x (rc_1_4) from 2.0.x (rc_2_0). builds for libtorrent 2.x are also offered and are tagged with rc_2_0. the switch happened due to user demand and perceived performance issues. if until now you didn't experience any performance issue then go ahead and use the rc_2_0 builds. macos: the macos version is not well supported, because we don't have active macos developers/contributors. the project is in need of macos developers. if you are a macos developer willing to help, just go to our bug tracker for a list of macos related issues. or try to fix bugs that you yourself have discovered and annoy you.

these crashes were exposed due to boost 1.74. boost 1.73 doesn't have this problem. however, libtorrent also fixed the issue on their end so the windows installers use the newer libtorrent code. the rest of the release is almost the same as v4.0 (see changelog). since other platforms weren't affected only windows builds will be made available for this version. qbittorrent v4.4.0 was released. windows: users of windows 10+ can also use the qt6 version of the installer. qt6 offers better hidpi compatibility. known issue: the text on the progress bar may have wrong color or not appear at all. you may switch to the regular version(qt5 based) until it is resolved. the qt6 version isn't tested much. the v4.x series will probably be the last one that supports qt5 and therefore windows 7 and 8. it will see releases at least until the summer of 2022. linux: an appimage is now offered. it uses the latest versions of qt6, libtorrent, boost, openssl. it is created on ubuntu 20.04 and it should work on any other similarly aged distro. it isn't well tested. also ubuntu 20.04 is dropped from the ppas because it doesn't have the minimum required qt5 version (5.15.2). the appimage should cover any users left on that version. macos: builds will be uploaded in the next days. this entry will be updated to contain relevant info, so check back here too. 5ec8ef588b
