This can be applied to many of the editing tools, too.) While the app's free version is easy to use, learning Photoshop's PDF requires an investment in either your time or money. Adobe's premium Photohow Advanced is an even better option. The app's version of the Clipwork Tools allow you to create 2-D or 3D "clips" of an image by defining a series of paths through your image, much like you'd do in Illustrator. In addition to the More button, Photoshop has also streamlined the workflow with enhanced Workspace panels to make it easier to navigate. Workflow, panel settings and workspace features have been designed, organized and arranged in a way that makes it easier to find and access the content you want. That said, for more advanced capabilities, some things have to be done from outside the application. For example, you can't batch process multiple photos into folders from within Photoshop without using the application's Organizer feature. Photoshop Elements includes many of the same editing tools as Photoshop, such as PhotoOrganizer, which makes it easier to work with images. You can even crop, edit and apply filters, or batch apply adjustments, to the entire photo using the Organizer. We're also excited about performance improvements, and two separate areas in Photoshop that will speed up the overall editing workflow. The first is Performance Presets: the new Preset panel quicker and easier to search for presets that allow you to make changes like the look of text, levels, exposure, brightness, contrast, and other adjustments. Second is Performance Mode: you can now add more efficiency and convenience by customizing your preferences in Performance Mode. Find the new preset panel to quickly colorize your photos, add brightness to a dark photo, soften up a too-sharp photo, etc. It's been quite a year already for Photoshop and Photoshop Elements! We are excited about the new and updated technology that is coming from both Photoshop and Photoshop Elements. Check out our latest videos of the features on Adobe.com and the Adobe Design Conferences that kicked off at The Venetian in Las Vegas today!
